under, upon, over and through the lands of the defendant, as above described, the petitioner shall have the further right now and from time to time hereafter to cut and keep said right of way clear of trees, undergrowth and other obstructions that might in any manner or otherwise with the construction and use of said pipeline, fittings and appliances to said line. The right of ingress and egress that the petitioner may exercise in constructing, maintaining, and operating said pipeline referred to shall be confined to said right of way strip condemned and set apart above. All damage incident to the use of ingress and egress over said strip of land condemned shall be paid for by petitioner.

The easement or right of way for said pipeline is such, however, that said defendant, his heirs and assigns, will not be divested of the right to use and enjoy the premises to the extent that such use and enjoyment does not interfere with the use and enjoyment of said right of way easement and incidental rights granted to petitioner.

Petitioner shall never have the right to fence his whole or any part of said easement or to construct any building thereon, but the defendant shall have the right to fence the whole or any part of the boundaries thereof and to build cross-fences, passageways and cross-roads in so long as same do not unreasonably interfere with the rights of petitioner under said easement. The petitioner further agrees to buy the pipeline so that it will not interfere with the utilization of the land by the defendant.

In the taking into consideration both the value of the easement taken and incidental damage to the remainder of said land, we do find the value of the easement taken to be $200.00, and do assess incidental damages to the remainder of defendant's property at $150.00.

In granting of the value of said easement and the amount of incidental damages, we have taken into consideration the purpose for which the easement is sought, as above set forth, and also the continued right of the defendant, his heirs and assigns, to use and enjoy the premises as above set forth.
